SUNLIGHT FROM SCHADE

PASTOR’S DISCRETIONARY FUND: WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT WORKS

On the Sunday in December when I went with our youth to Walmart to shop for presents using money from the Rich Huff Fund, I set off to purchase items for gift bags (funded by Social Ministry) to give to residents of Country Comfort retirement home. I told the cashier what we were doing with all those bottles of shampoo, lotion, and hand soap, and she was impressed by the thoughtfulness of our congregation. “I wish I had known about your church. I’m having trouble paying my rent this month,” she mentioned. She told me that even though she works full time, her income does not always stretch enough when extra medical bills or other expenses come due. I told her that we have a Pastor’s Discretionary Fund at our church and that we could help her with her rent. She paused from bagging my items and her eyes lit up with gratitude. “Really? That would be such a huge help!”

I have heard that phrase many times as a pastor when I say: “Yes, we can help.” Just in the last year, we have helped a family fix their furnace so they could have heat this winter; gave food and gas cards to families who needed just a boost to help them over the hump (including members and non-members), and helped to pay an individual’s electric bill when he had fallen on hard times. Because of the generosity of our members, when individuals contact our church with needs, we are able to assist them through this fund, fulfilling Jesus’ command to care for “the least of these.”

But some have come to me with questions about how we make sure the church isn’t “taken for a ride,” or scammed by people just looking for a hand-out without any real need. It’s important to know that there are safeguards we put in place whenever anyone comes to us asking for assistance from the Pastor’s Discretionary Fund.

1. We fill out a form for each person that notes all their information, what their need is and the circumstances of their situation. We make suggestions for other ways they can find help, such as Women in Transition, public assistance, and other service agencies. We keep the form in a confidential file.
2. We never give funds directly to the person. If they are asking for help with rent or a utility bill, we make arrangements for the payment to go directly to the accounts payable office. If they are asking for money for food or gas, we purchase gift cards to give to the individual.
3. We limit the total amount we give at one time to no more than $50 - $100, depending on the need and the amount that is in the discretionary account at that time.
4. We limit the number of times a person can receive help from the church to no more than once every six months, and no more than three times in a two-year period.

Sadly, there have been times in my ministry at previous churches when I have been “scammed” by people seeking assistance. This is unfortunate because there are so many people with legitimate needs who could use our help. These safeguards help to ensure that there is enough money to give at least some assistance to those who come to us with needs, without depleting the funds, and with protections in place.

LENTEN MID-WEEK STUDY

“Baptism, Communion, and Hospitality”

Wednesdays in Lent, 5:30 p.m.

(Soup at 6:30 and Service at 7:00 follow the study)

This study prepared by the staff of the Upper Susquehanna Synod is part of the ELCA’s conversation on who is invited to receive Holy Communion in ELCA congregations. Participants will receive a free copy of “The Use of the Means of Grace,” but orders must be placed by March 8. As a church, we take up this study in response to action taken at the 2013 Churchwide Assembly to have a conversation about “Eucharistic hospitality.” This is a wonderful way to refamiliarize yourself with the Lutheran sacraments of Baptism and Holy Communion, and help us as a church discern how we can live into our calling as Christians. Please notify Pastor Schade if you plan to attend these sessions.

Confirmation Corner

Martin Luther and Martin Luther King, Jr. Sharing more than just a name!

Many people confuse the man who started the Protestant Reformation with the man who led the Civil Rights movement in America. As our country celebrates Black History month, our Confirmation students learned about why the connection between the two men goes beyond just their names. Here are some of their reflections:

There are many similarities between the 16th century reformer, Martin Luther, and the 1960s civil rights activist, Martin Luther King Jr. One similarity is that both of them fought against what they thought was wrong. Martin Luther fought against the Roman Catholic Church because they were lying to the people. Martin Luther King Jr. fought for racial equality through nonviolence and words, just like how Martin Luther fought. Another similarity between the two men is that they both made lasting marks on the world. Martin Luther started a whole new branch of Christianity and Martin Luther King Jr. influenced the change for racial equality. Their incredible works to change the way things were are still remembered today. — Amy Danowsky

Martin Luther and Martin Luther King Jr. share many similarities. They were both Protestants, even though it was seen as a negative term in Luther's time. They both stood up for what they thought was right to make the world a better place. They wanted to reform what people thought they knew about the Bible. King stood up for rights for blacks stating everyone is equal before God and that is how it should be all around the world. Luther also stated that God is forgiving to all sins and loves everyone equally. I think it is appropriate that King was named after Luther because he created a huge movement in the world and inspired many people, including teens, today. They are both very important historical figures that will forever be remembered.

Both King and Luther left an enormous influence on me and inspired me as well. King taught me to never judge a book by the cover. No matter what some one looks like, we are all the same inside, and you would be shocked to find out how much you could have in common with someone you would never expect. Luther also has a huge roll in my life. Without Martin Luther, we wouldn't even have the church we have today with the most amazing congregation ever! Everybody knows everybody and we are not all only close friends, but we are all family. We all talk, laugh, pray, smile, trust, and cry with each other. Both King and Luther taught me to stay strong for what I believe in, because in the end, it could have a lasting impression on the people in my church, school, or even all around the world.—Marianne Murray

Social Ministry

As 2014 came to a close, members at UIC were involved in two special Social Ministry activities reaching out to those in the community. On November 10th several provided help in serving the weekly Community Harvest Meal at St. Andrew's UMC to approximately 80 people. Others had also baked goodies that were served that evening. Much appreciation was expressed by those in attendance.

Social Ministry's focus during the Christmas Season was providing gifts to Country Comfort Assisted Living residents who would receive few or no visitors over the holidays. On December 14th about 15 of our youth and adults visited the facility in New Columbia to sing some Christmas carols and give out small useful gifts to everyone there. What a great way to spread the Christmas spirit!

THANK YOU'S

Thank you to all those who helped make and bag cookies for the Youth Cookie Sale.

Thank you to all the children, parents and members that helped with the Christmas Pageant.

Thank you to our Rich Huff committee for all the time you ladies take in organizing and shopping for less fortunate children in our area.

We had a great turn out for Caroling at Country Comfort. Thank you to all who came to sing and hand out gifts.

Thank you all everyone who came out to our Jazzy Christmas Concert and Tea. A special thank you to all those who helped make it such a wonderful event by donating food, decorating tables and bringing their tea sets.

By Sharon Weiser

This View is more of a report than a view from the pew, because I'm not sitting in a pew—I'm sitting on a chair in the social room for worship service. Please don't think I'm complaining, because I'm not. I find our temporary worship location to be a good thing. Changing things up sometimes is good, and when it is being done to help conserve energy, as is the case at UIC, it's even better.

It's early in 2015 and we already have a lot of events scheduled for this year, but we'll focus on just two of them for the moment. The ELCA Youth Gathering in Detroit, 6 youth and their chaperones will be heading to the Motor City in July where they will gather with thousands of other youth for the purpose of faith formation, worship, study, fellowship, service and play. Thank you for all of the support you have given to our youth as they raise funds for this trip. Please continue to show your support as they continue their fundraising over the next few months. We are proud of these youth (and the ones who are not going)! They are a huge part of United In Christ. Keep them in your prayers and support them as you are able.

Another event that will take place in May is our third annual Operation Santa Claus/Rich Huff Fund Auction. At this point we are on our way with planning and already have a number of items for the auction. Through Facebook we were able to contact a manufacturer based in Hanover Pa., they will be donate a basket of their foods for the auction. I find this to be a very nice thing. They don't know us or anything about us, other than what we told them, but they are willing to help out. Little things like this make me pause and think about the fact that in spite of all the bad, nasty things that happen in this world, there ARE people who are good, generous and open to new experiences.

Dear God: Thank you for the many opportunities we have to worship, learn, pray, serve and grow in our faith at UIC. Bless us always! Amen.

HEALTH TID-BITS

From our Parish Nurses

The holidays are over, winter is here, and we are into a new year. Let's talk about New Year's Resolutions.

Do your kids resist trying new, healthy foods? Jennifer Lee wanted to find a way to take the stress out of feeding her kids healthy foods. She developed a program called The 52 New Foods Challenge, www.52NEWFOODS.COM. Lee challenged her kids to try a new unfamiliar food each week. Along with trying the foods, the children helped shop and prepare it. Before long even her very picky daughter was not rebelling against the new foods.

Here are a few tips for budgeting your meals. Before planning a meal, check your refrigerator for any leftovers that can be "recycled" into another meal. If a recipe calls for an expensive ingredient (like sun-dried tomatoes), use it sparingly. After a meal, put leftovers in meal size portions and freeze them for another time. Don't put them in the refrigerator and forget about them, where they will spoil and you will end up throwing them away. Remember that eating out costs more than eating in, as well as not being as healthy. We consume an extra 200 calories when eating out versus eating at home. I'm not saying we should never eat out, but instead limit the number of times we do, and choose places that have healthier options on their menus.

I can't talk about healthy eating without mentioning exercise. Exercise can be done at home or in a gym, by yourself or with family and friends. It's a great way to spend time together as a family. Find something that interests you, that you are able to do. If you start doing exercises that you hate, you are not going to stick with it.

Another great New Year Resolution is doing more good deeds. Get involved in doing things for others. Do you need some ideas? How about volunteering at a nursing home, library, hospital, or at church. Many of these places you can volunteer together as a family, another great way to spend time together. And what a great feeling it is when we help others.

These are just a few resolutions ideas. I'm sure we all have others we have made, but the important thing is to try to find a resolution that you will continue doing and that will make you feel better about yourself.

Until next time, stay warm and good health to you all.
In Christian Love,
